

---

RHODE ISLAND COLLEGE

Feinstein School of Education and Human Development
GRADUATE PROGRAMS

Performance-Based Evaluation

- As part of your application, you are required to submit a performance-based evaluation, which reflects a recent assessment of your professional work and skills.
- The performance-based evaluation may include, but is not limited to, any of the following:
  - a personal copy, or parts thereof, of a recent teacher/employee evaluation that addresses your professional skills.
  - an evaluation of your performance during a specific professional activity (e.g., student teaching final evaluation, conducting a workshop/seminar; intake interview; conducting a therapy group)
  - a classroom performance-based evaluation demonstrating your professional skills (e.g., your instructor's evaluation of your performance-based class project, teaching demonstration, or counseling simulations)